

Big Water Incidents

Ward Electric Fire
Washington, Pennsylvania
Sometime in the 1970s

Facts & Figures...

- The photos in this presentation are from the archives of Larry Davis – we believe that he took them.
- The incident is a major fire that occurred in Washington, Pennsylvania sometime in the 1970's (we think)
- We know little about the fire but do know that it involved the Ward Electric Supply store and that it caused a “bunch of drama” related to Washington FD's request for mutual aid.
- The fire was fought for quite some time before it was brought under control and although we don't know much about the water supply operations, we are pretty sure they were significant.

Fire Through the Roof

We think this is Side A

Another View Later in the Fire

We are pretty sure this ladder truck is from the Canonsburg VFD – part of the mutual aid request.

Fire Spread Quickly

The Remains

Looks like a significant collapse occurred.
